Answer of Expressing Opinion

Agreeing

- Of course
- You're absolutely right
- Yes, I agree.
- I think so too.
- That's a (very) good point.
- Oh yes, that's right.
- Exactly.

Protesting Politely

- That's not what I mean/said.
- No, what I'm trying to say is that...
- You got me wrong.
- I'm probably not making myself very clear.
- That's not exactly what I was trying to say.

Protesting Rudely

- You're not listening, are you?
- Did you hear a word I said?
- Can you understand what I say?
- But who said that?

Disagreeing Politely

- I see, but that's different.
- Sorry, I don't agree with you.
- I don't see it that way.
- That's not entirely true.

Showing Empathy before Disagreeing

Yes, I agree with you but...
I can see your point, but...
That's very true, but...
Of course, you're right, but...
I know what you mean but...

Disagreeing in Rude Way (colloquial)

- Are you crazy or what?
- You must be kidding, right?
- I can't believe you're saying that.
- No way!
- I can't buy that.

Agreeing Strongly (colloquial)

- Who can disagree with that?
- Now you're talking.
- Yes, yes, that's the point!
- I totally agree with you

TYPES OF EXPRESSING OPINION

Formal Situation

Lisa: The city council is going to build a new parking site under the park over there.

Smith: Oh no, why are they going to do that? It's terrible.

Lisa: You think so? I think it's a very good idea, actually.

Smith: On the contrary, I think it's a disaster.

Lisa: A disaster? I think we need more parking sites.

Smith: Well, I agree with that, but not under the park.

Lisa: Why not? It's the best place.

Smith: Do you think so? I totally disagree. Why the park?

Lisa: Well, you need a big open space for that.

Smith: I see your point, but don't you think trees are more important than cars?

Lisa: Of course, I agree, but we all have cars, and we need a place to park them.

Smith: Yes, that's right. But they can do it near the station.

Lisa: Oh no, that's too far away, we need a parking site in this area.

Smith: Well, that's true, but maybe walking a bit wouldn't hurt anyone.

Lisa: A bit? The station is at least 10 minutes away. Just imagine, on a rainy day.

Smith: You could be right, but I still think trees are more important than cars.

Lisa: You've got a point there, but maybe they can plant trees near the station instead.

Smith: Oh, that sounds very good, but we're talking about very old and big trees.

Lisa: Yes, but we have to choose, don't we? We can't have everything.

Smith: Yeah, I suppose you're right, but still, I think it's a very bad idea.

Informal Situation

Exa: Man, did you hear that? They're gonna build a parking site under the park over there.

Jack: Are you serious? But that's crazy, why do they want to do that?

Exa: Why? Well, because there are too many cars in the area. We need more parking space.

Jack: Nonsense! What we need are more trees. Cars should disappear.

Exa: You can't be serious.

Jack: Yes, I am. They pollute and are too noisy and...

Exa: Come on, man, that's all B.S. Do you think you could live without a car today?

Jack: Of course, I could.

Exa: Oh, come on, where's your logic? How would you go to work?

Jack: Obviously, I would work near home, and not an hour away. Or I could take the bus.

Exa: Yea, I know what you mean, but we use the car for so many things.

Jack: That's very true, but we could always find other alternatives.

Exa: Such as...?

Jack: Such as coaches, trains, etc.

Exa: You must be kidding, right? We don't even have a train here, and coaches don't go everywhere.

Jack: Yes, you have a point there, but if we didn't have cars, we would have more and better public transport.

Exa: Yes, I agree. But still, having a car is so comfortable.

Jack: Of course it is, I know. But we can't have everything, can we?

Exa: Exactly. That's what I think. We can't have everything, so I prefer having a car.

Jack: Oh girl, you're impossible.

Exa: I know ?
